

The residents of Indiana have worked very hard to protect our privacy and our peace. I am a single parent as well as a student trying to make a better life for my family. The cost of time with my children and studies to answer unwanted phone calls, even from those that I already do business with, is too high. Some of the calls I have received personally from those companies were for products that I have already purchased. The rest are things I cannot benefit from nor afford without sacrifice of my family. If these companies need to inform me of new products or services, they can always include it with my monthly bill or statement and I can read it when it is convenient for me.

Thank You;

Henry L. Smith
